The best in art and life comes from a center, something urgent and powerful, an idea or emotion that insists on its being. From that insistence, a shape emerges and creates its structure out of passion. If you begin with a structure, you have to make up the passion, and that's very hard to do.

There is no power for change greater than a community
discovering what it cares about.

Margaret Wheatley

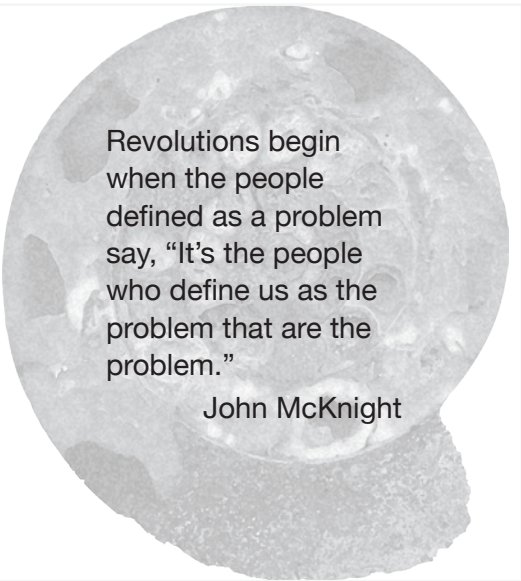

My enduring passion is to part the curtain; to remove the invisible veil of indifference that blocks to us each other's presence, each other's wonder, each other's plight.

Eudora Welty

Often, you can't get more of what you want by simply solving the problems created by what you have.

Russell Ackoff

Revolutions begin when the people
defined as a problem
say, "It's the people who define us as the problem that are the problem."

John McKnight

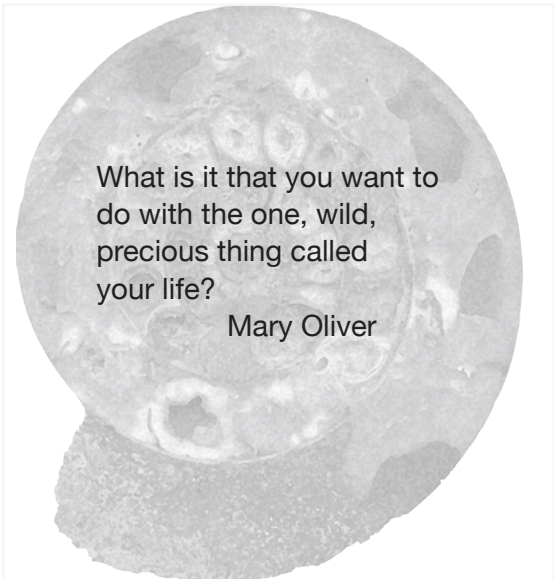

One of my images of a peaceful world: a society that might work somewhat like a pot-luck supper, where everyone contributes and everyone receives, and where a diversity of offerings is essential. (Just imagine a pot-luck to which everyone brought potato salad!). In such a world there would be no one who could not contribute their work and care –and no one who could not count on receiving nourishment and fellowship.

Ursula Franklin

Stories make us more alive, more courageous, more loving. Why does anybody tell a story? It does indeed have something to do with faith, faith that the universe has meaning, that our little human lives are not irrelevant, that what we choose or say or do matters, matters cosmically.

Madeleine L'Engle

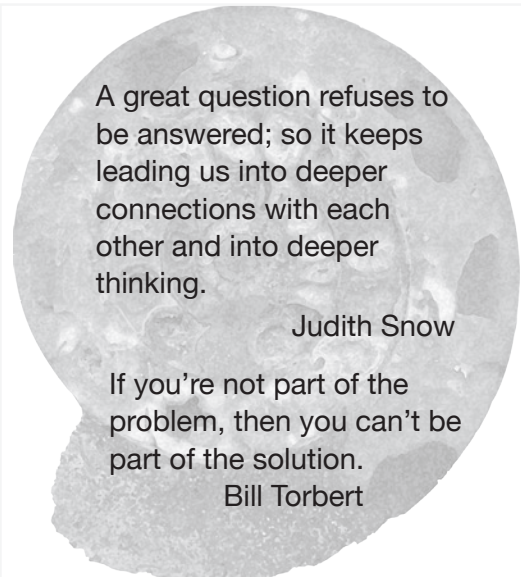

The truth will make you odd.
Flannery O'Connor

We can't be creative if we refuse to be confused.

Margaret Wheatley

A great question refuses to be answered; so it keeps leading us into deeper connections with each other and into deeper thinking.

Judith Snow

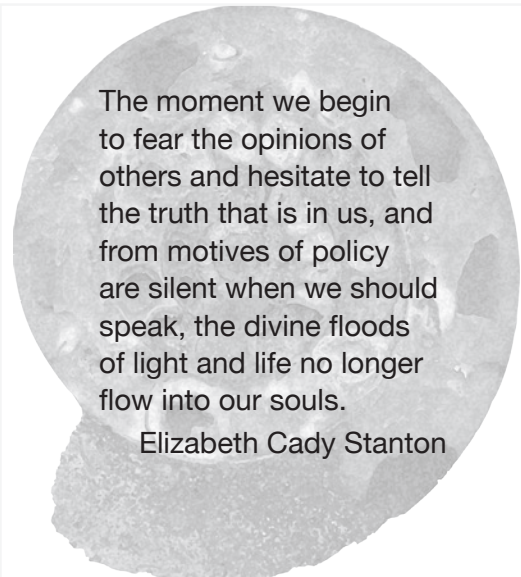

If you're not part of the problem, then you can't be part of the solution.

Bill Torbert

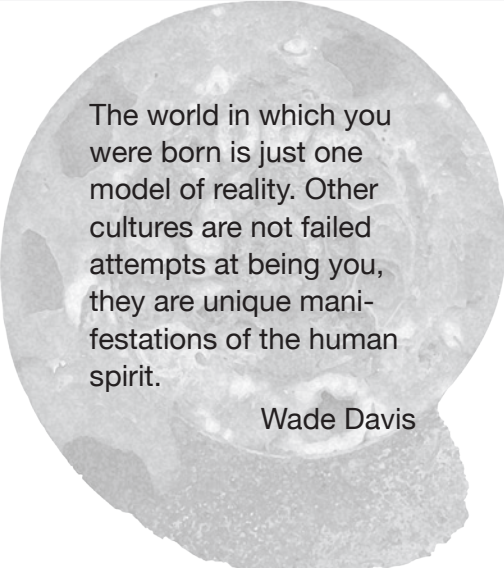

A better economic and political model is not something that can be designed and introduced like a new car. If it is to be more than just a new variation on the old degeneration, it must above all be an expression of life in the process of transforming itself. A better system will not automatically insure a better life. In fact, the opposite is now true: only by creating a better life can a better system be developed.

Vaclav Havel

The moment we begin to fear the opinions of others and hesitate to tell the truth that is in us, and from motives of policy are silent when we should speak, the divine floods of light and life no longer flow into our souls.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton

The world in which you were born is just one model of reality. Other cultures are not failed attempts at being you, they are unique manifestations of the human spirit.

Wade Davis

The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. It is the source of all true art and science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer pause to wonder and stand rapt in awe is as good as dead; his eyes are closed.
