PATH & MAPS Course online

We thought it was not possible - and we were wrong. After prototyping our virtual course, we are ready to stretch into offering our PATH & MAPS workshop on line. We have tried in several formats, and remarkably it works. So we look forward to seeing you - on line for now...

PATH & MAPS Facilitators

This course and book are for those who have been using PATH and MAPS and similar planning processes for days, months or even decades. We also welcome new practitioners who want to make a difference in people's lives.

Course Guides:

- Jack Pearpoint
- Lynda Kahn

9:30am- 12:30pm Eastern; 1:30 - 4:30pm on all 5 full workshop days

~ Orientation & Follow-up sessions- 2 hours each 9:30 - 11:30

Virtual Workshop Schedule

Moving Virtual takes more time and more breaks. Our latest prototype is five full workshop days: 3 days week one, 2 additional days 4 weeks later. Additionally, we will begin with a 2 hour Orientation session about a week in advance, and a Follow-up session (2 hours) following completion of the workshop.

PATH & MAPS Virtual Course

This course will be deeply interactive - with small group work, including demonstrations and practice of PATH and MAPS in small teams. The biggest changes as we move on line will be in time. We need more time to accommodate the reality of Zoom exhaustion. We will be adding a short pre workshop introduction session, and a short post workshop followup session. Daily training will be in two blocks of 3 hours (with breaks). There will be opportunities for in-depth conversations on the framework and thinking underneath the processes. We will collectively experience practices that have worked for on line facilitation and support. We will explore facilitation practice and values more deeply. We believe the course will be particularly useful for folks who will be mentoring/coaching other facilitators. We are keeping the group small, a proposed limit of 23 people so we can all see each other on screen. We have learned a great deal prototyping this work with several groups. The workshop will continue to change and deepen through our shared learning. We hope many of you will be able to join us in our exploration of this 'update' so that we can benefit from our collective wisdom as we move forward.

Issues to be explored:•

- Underlying Values
- Community building
- PATH & MAPS practice & facilitation
- Skill building to get stronger

Tuition:

- $650 for the full workshop - five days
- $525/person for people with disabilities/families and team rate per person for teams of 3 or more.

• Course materials included: 3 books plus posters, workshop journal & learning journey booklet- (standard shipping for materials included in workshop cost)

The PATH & MAPS Handbook: Person-Centered Ways to Build Community

The content is gleaned and distilled from the wisdom of many of our collective experiences - constantly evolving by refining and updating core principles that are unaltered and true. This is another stage of evolution. We are adding richness, not deleting capacity.
